THE SECOND CHOICE.

The New York Tribune, in an excess of virtue, declares that, as to Presidential candidates, no man should have a second choice.

A choice, it says, for the Presidency means something. "It ought to mean a deliberate judgment that, all things considered, the nomination of a certain candidate is a duty. The man who deliberately judges that the nomination of White is a public duty cannot have any opinion about Black or other candidate named, except that it is a duty not to nominate them." This is putting it altogether too strong. A man may have deliberate judgment that either of two candidates for specific qualities manifest in each would make a good President. For reasons, however, not always capable of rational analysis, or for the matter of policy as to success obtainable, he may prefer that one shall be nominated in case the other cannot receive the support he would wish to see accorded. Why should a second choice—"disqualification" for "the performance of a grave public duty?" The duty of choosing "A" may be fully impressed upon the conscience of the delegate, but it may likewise be clear to him that "B" would serve the country well. When the Tribune charges that the voter with a second choice is of the weathercock order, it assumes that those who have but one choice are infallible; and it assumes the possibility of a situation in which no choice whatever would result in nomination.

A DISGRACED STATE.

We made note some time ago of a new code of practice at the bar of Kentucky. It began at Buford murdering Judge Eli Scott, who died against him. It was followed by a lawyer named Cornelison, horsewhipping Judge Reid; he did not rule as he desired. He first dazed his victim by a blow with a bludgeon. The master so preyed upon the mind of the Judge that recently he committed suicide.

Cornelison has gone unpunished for his cowardly assault; his public sentiment, indeed, applauded the bully. But now that tragedy has succeeded the farce we shall expect public sentiment, even in Kentucky, to drive the miscreant Cornelison from among men. If it does not we shall believe that Kentucky, with her bulldozing lawyers, her duellists, her fearful record of illiteracy, her murder record, and her whisky deserves to be blotted out of existence, and her name made a hissing and a by-word. In no state in this Union has there been such contempt for the Courts, such assaults upon intelligence and such disregard of the common decencies of a republican form of government, and such listlessness regarding education. Kentucky's illiteracy, her code of honor, and her whisky stinks are giving us legitimate results.

It looks very much as if the Republican Senate was doing all the work, and the Democratic House all the blowing in the present Congress. The Democrats promised the country much from their side of Congress. But to what accomplishment of moment can they point to date? The Senate, on the other hand, has done good work and plenty of it. The session is short, and if the power they have, must be used to up and do. The Morrison tariff will appear to have upped the party vigor.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

OFF FOR CHICAGO.—A special train, consisting of a baggage car, six Pullmans and a silver palace sleeper, arrived in the city at 6:45 last evening, conveying to the East the delegates to the Republican National Convention and a party of about 200 ladies and gentlemen who took advantage of the low excursion rates charged to accompany them. The first two cars, occupied by the delegates and inferior friends, bore upon each side the legend "We are the party of 1856—1884." Blaine and party. Between the date "1856" and the word "Blaine" was a tolerably fair picture of California's choice for the Presidency. There was a large assemblage of citizens at the station to welcome the visitors, and when they had been welcomed, the few ardent Republicans had secured the presence of the First Artillery Band to give a short military salute to the occasion. The party took up their silver palace sleeping rooms, and then, there being a few minutes to spare, in answer to a call from the assemblage, J. M. Davis, General Agent of the Chicago Northwestern, and the few who were in charge of the train, indicated from the balcony Hon. W. W. Morrow who made a speech of about two minutes duration announcing the determination of the delegates to do all in their power to effect the nomination of a candidate who would be the next President. Hon. David McClellan was next called upon, and contented himself with asking for three cheers for the "party of 1856" and for California by those addressed—and saying that California and the whole country wanted that gentleman nominated and elected—a man who was a true American and who would represent where they were. Hon. George H. Knight and Hon. Wm. Johnston also made half-minute speeches, enthusiastic for Blaine. All the speeches were warmly applauded. When the band was made for Frank Pixley, who was one of the party, the bell rang, the excursionists repaired to the cars, and the train pulled out of the depot, the band playing "Hail to the Chief" and "Dixie" along the way. It is expected that the train will be in Chicago at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

Police Court.—In the Police Court yesterday the cases of Frank Duncan and Henry McHenry, accused of having been drunk, were dismissed on payment of costs. John Kraus, charged with disturbing the peace, was fined $5 and costs.

The case of Charles Campbell (colored) for rape, partially heard Saturday, was again taken up, and resulted in the discharge of the defendant. The court holding that the girl was not a virgin, and that his being held, Robert Hornbeck, father of the little girl upon whom the assault is alleged to have been committed, was very angry at the decision, and that he would not be present to judge for others, regarding death, disease.

DECAYED REMAINS OF FLESH.

They were too used to such matters. So far as men who labored in the railroad shops, he thought either all or all of them would compare favorably with Mr. Kenner.

The remarks of Mr. Johnson angered both the sextons, who claimed that they were just as bad as the attorney, and thought just as bad as the man who was better than any lawyer.

Major Brown, fearing trouble would ensue if he remained, left the city. Mr. Heilbron, turned to the remarks of Mr. Johnson relative to the sextons, exclaimed: "One of your clients, Mr. Thielbar, was raised in a swill-yard." The sextons, too, were shocked at his father, and, instead of moving out eight blocks further into the city, and now his son often nerves are so sensitive that he cannot stand a grain of dirt, he has moved to a railroad shop, and had lived there but three or four years.

It is known that Kenner was sexton of the Catholic Cemetery. Mohn of the Jewish Cemetery, and he did not think they were competent to judge for others, regarding death, disease.
